

Commitment to Patients and their Families

We in health care are called to care for people and their loved ones during times of great vulnerability.
To fulfill this sacred trust, we each commit to the following:

- > I will see you as a person.
- > I will give you my undivided attention during the times I am with you.
- > I will touch you with gentleness and kindness, always mindful of your boundaries.
- > I will listen to learn what matters most to you.
- > I will seek to understand what this time means for you and your loved ones.
- > I will involve your loved ones in your care as appropriate.
- > I will help you to cope and participate fully in your own health and healing.
- > I will safeguard your dignity in all my communications with you and about you.
- > I will strive to create a safe haven for you and your loved ones.
- > I will hold your trust in me as sacred.

Changing the way America cares for children and families.

– Created by Mary Koloroutis

